Sisley Spring Summer 2025

FROM THE CITY TO THE SEASIDE. AND BACK.

A journey in two worlds. A continuous round trip between metropolitan glam and the call of the sea. Sisley Spring Summer 2025 moves on a fine line of contrasts and balances, with looks that change like the wind, but always remain faithful to the brand's bold attitude. While formality lightens and tailoring relaxes, the only rule is to enrich oneself with new combinations, details and suggestions.

WOMEN

A fascinating dualism, between the office and the seaside, between the determination of the city and the fluidity of sand under the feet. Sisley's new 'power dressing' reinterprets preppy style with structured suits, minimal checks and bold low waists, mixing rigor and sensuality with fluid Bermuda shorts, see-through knitwear and inlaid stripes. Denim is the common thread connecting these two worlds: urban and relaxed. Basic and continuous fits are joined by new fluid-tailoring fits, with light 10-ounce canvas fabrics that redefine cargos, jumpsuits and tailored trousers. The denim color is updated in ecru with foil, while the boyfriend cut with a high turn-up and the low-waisted baggy style add a relaxed attitude. The laser-cut matching set with an almost tonal shaded feather pattern is joined by a cigarette style broken wash and a new Y2K-inspired bootcut, perfect for day-to-night transitions. When the season warms up, the clothes reflect the sea. Impalpable sequins, fluid and satin fabrics, and wave-effect workmanship capture the light, while urban linen redefines the tailoring with mix & match three-piece suits. Corset lacing on shirts and tops alternates with metallic embroidery that recalls the brilliance of the sand at sunset. The stretch viscose linen blend trench coat, with its sensual detail on the back, reveals a new idea of sophisticated and effortless femininity. Summer is also freedom: western and marine influences meet, generating an unprecedented aesthetic. Corset lacing is found on summer tops and trousers, while poplin shirts with portholes recall a contemporary adventure aesthetic. The sleeveless blazer with relaxed shorts is a new alternative to the traditional suit, while the matching set of compact satin with visible stitching embodies a fluid and modern elegance. And then there's the romantic soul of the collection: 3D floral embroidery in organza, pencil skirts in tulle with micro-dot effect embroidery, faux leather jackets with embossed petals, viscose tops with metallic details. Because the journey can be long, but sooner or later, you always return home, where it all began.

MEN

The Sisley SS25 man is a modern navigator, guided by the currents, who never loses his bearings. His elegance is a balance between the city and the sea, between structure and lightness. In spring, the focus is on heritage: unstructured tailoring, zip jackets, light trench coats and waterproof wool blend cagoules. Denim evolves with four new fits, from skinny to contemporary regular, with experimental washes that leave their mark.

Then the summer arrives, and the wind changes direction. We land on Sisley Island, where business meets the beach. Wrinkle-free linen and denim-like fabrics blend into versatile suits, perfect for those who move between different destinations. The palette lights up with indigo and deep blues, with incursions of sunny yellow and neutral tones, evoking the passage from crowded streets to the calm of the horizon.

The silhouettes also change: knee-length Bermuda shorts take the place of slim trousers, the new suit becomes a hybrid between a utility jacket and a shacket, while volumes lengthen and relax. Branding becomes bold, with metal details, embossed buttons and hardware zips that transform each garment into a style icon.
